Ignite! Learning Enters into Strategic Alliance with EDUSPARK

AUSTIN, TX, July 5, 2011 – Ignite! Learning has entered into a strategic alliance with EDUSPARK, Inc. (EDUSPARK), joining sales, product development, and marketing services to offer a new suite of digital learning applications targeting Spanish heritage dual language and bilingual classrooms.

“EDUSPARK has long been a leader in the production of literacy development programs in Mexico that integrate with existing classroom technology, build teachers' content capacity and promote students' critical thinking and, now with our assistance, will be enhancing these proven resources for the U.S. market to help support local standards-based instruction by advancing language acquisition and proficiency priorities for Spanish heritage speaking student populations,” remarks Ignite! CEO Ken Leonard.

The partnership highlights the core strengths of both organizations. Ignite! has demonstrated unparalleled ability to create easy-to-use teacher-led digital content based instructional systems that integrate common classroom technology, inspire active student engagement, and flexibly align to state, Common Core, and local standards. EDUSPARK brings a proven research-based instructional program that has been shown to boost literacy rates in Spanish and English for students Pre-K through 8th grade.

The new product suite combines multimedia and print instructional materials, formative assessments, integration of local, state, and Common Core standards, and innovative new classroom delivery platforms.

“We are thrilled to enter into this partnership with Ignite! and be able to leverage their market intelligence, sales knowhow and development expertise for the betterment of our bilingual teaching and learning solution,” states EDUSPARK CEO Laura Machuca.

The first jointly produced products from this strategic alliance will be introduced to U.S. school districts this fall.
